

Wallpaper*

In pictures: the W* photography desk's daily digest of visual inspiration

ART / 12 DEC 2016

Photographic memories

12 December

Currently on show at New York's Sous Les Etoiles Gallery, 'The Farther I Remember' is a group exhibition featuring work by Carolle Bénitah, Eeva Hannula, Susanne Wellm and Robin Cracknell.

The collective show is a study relating to the photographers' nostalgic dreams and memories; reworking new material from original archived prints and negatives, physically and digitally embellishing the source material. Therein, the once familiar becomes new, the artists' interventions affording fresh new perspectives.

'The Farther I Remember' is on view until 4 February 2017.

Pictured: à la plage (at the beach), by Carolle Bénitah, 2009

Writer: Liberty Dye