Jean-Pierre Laffont: Turbulent America

Powder Ridge Rock Festival, 1970 © Jean-Pierre Laffont

Sous Les Etoiles Gallery is pleased to announce "Turbulent America", French-American photographer Jean-Pierre Laffont's premiere exhibition with the gallery. An opening reception with the photographer in attendance will be held on Thursday, November 16, 6–8pm, and a gallery talk with Rick Smolan is scheduled for Monday, November 20 at 7pm. Best known as the co-creator of the "Day in the Life" book series, Rick Smolan is also a former TIME, LIFE, and National Geographic photographer.

"Turbulent America" represents a selection of Jean-Pierre Laffont's work from the 1960's, '70s, and '80s. Laffont's photographs capture the genuine sense of what it was like to live in America during these decades. Laffont says, "Taken together, the images show the chaotic, often painful birth of the country we live in today."
